

Caption: Atahualpa (ca. 1502–1553) was the thirteenth and last sovereign ruler of the Inka Empire. The Spanish conqueror Francisco Pizarro captured Atahualpa, used him to control the empire, and eventually executed him, 1615. Drawing from The First New Chronicle and Good Government. Courtesy of The Royal Library, Copenhagen (GKS 2232 4^o).