When the Navajo (Diné) were forcibly marched to the internment camp known as Bosque Redondo, they suffered enormous loss and horrific conditions at the hands of the United States government.