

*“Looking at the Pryor Mountains from Denver, Wyoming, January 1, 2006. Photograph by Betty Jo Tindle.
[CC BY-SA 3.0]”*

“All the mountain ranges in the territory of the Apsáalooke (Crow) Nation are sacred because that is where First Maker travels as he watches his creation.”

— Letter to Custer National Forest from George Reed, former Chairman of Crow Cultural Committee, 2007.

“We want to keep [the Pryor Mountains] sacred and holy so that [the] next seven generations can use this in a sacred way.”

— Crow Elder, Burton Pretty On Top