“A couple times a week, we go catch fish . . . in the Columbia River and we bring them up here and we distribute them to tribal elders so they can actually have salmon again. And for many of them, they haven't had salmon for twenty years.”

Michael Marchand (Collville), NMAI Interview, August 2016

Salmon People cease to exist without salmon. To witness the return is spiritually invigorating.