Celilo Falls, ca. 1940s. Photograph by Ray Atkeson, courtesy of ©Ray Atkeson Image Archive 2008.72.7

Celilo means “echo of water on rocks” in the Sahaptin language. Fish were so abundant, the people said, that you could walk across the river on their backs.